

Implementation of humanitarian aid in the field of natural disasters.

-Namibia has floods every year, like the rest of southern Africa, including a major one during the 8th of April. Organizations such as the National Society of Human Rights (NSHR) accused the government for failing to prepare for the floods. They affect up to 500,000 people. The government of Namibia agrees that getting ready for floods and other natural disasters is their responsibility because people have a human right to be protected from these things.

Prevention of transmittable diseases- The prevalence of HIV in Namibia is among the highest in the world. It has been in Namibia since 1996, and therefore they have suffered from low life expectancies. More than 17% of the children are infected with HIV. The ways HIV can be passed on in Namibia include by transitional sex, heterosexual sex, and child abuse.

Improving the rights of women-